Assurance Against Misrepresentation

Trident University International (TUI) prohibits misrepresentations in all forms, including those made in any advertising, promotional materials, or in the marketing or recruitment for programs of instruction offered by the University.

No employee or representative of Trident University International (TUI) may make false, erroneous or misleading statements regarding the nature of:

- Educational programs
- Financial charges including tuitions and fees
- Employability of graduates
- Relationship with The US Department of Education

Educational Programs

No Employee or representative may make false, erroneous or misleading statements about the nature of educational programs including but not limited to admission requirements, credit transfer, graduation requirements, eligibility for licensure or certification, number and qualifications of faculty. No employee or representative will make statements such that completion or attendance at TUI will result in admission to any other institution, nor to any program at TUI. The University’s catalogs contain the requirements for admission and completion of all degrees and the costs associated with such degrees. At all times employees will represent the accreditation status of TUI truthfully and accurately.

Financial Charges

No Employee or representative may make false, erroneous or misleading statements about the cost of any program including tuition, fees, available tuition assistance scholarships or financial aid. The University’s catalogs contain information about the costs associated with academic programs.

Employability of Graduates

No employee or representative may make statements indicating that any program or degree offered by the university will result in any particular employment, promotion in existing employment, increases in salary or other benefits.

Reporting

Concerns about possible misrepresentation may be reported to the Office of Compliance at Trident University at phone: (888) 983-6931, extension 2004 or by email: compliance@trident.edu.
